The W.I.A.C. was founded in 1900, and since then has held annual exhibitions in London. Its aim is to show the work of professional women artists from all over the world. Its membership is restricted to 150 members, and works submitted for exhibition have to pass a selection committee. Every year the W.I.A.C., at its annual exhibition invites a group of women artists from abroad.

For the present exhibition in Great Yarmouth, (our first members exhibition held outside London), works have been submitted from South Africa, U.S.A., Greece, France, Germany, and Belgium, as well as from all parts of the British Isles and Northern Ireland.
